In the course of his several weeks' stay it was considered likely Eden also would confer with Soviet Ambassador Maxim Litvinoff, China's Foreign Minister T. V. Soong, and perhaps with Madame Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the generalissimo.

Here and in London, the purpose of Eden's visit was seen as two-fold: (1) a general exchange of views with the President and his policy-making advisers, and (2) a thorough exploration of the best means of preparing for meetings between all the United Nations governments for consideration of all aspects of the war and the problems arising out of it.

One of the difficulties to be faced in planning for such general United Nations conferences is the fact that not all of the United Nations are fighting both Germany and Japan. All of them could confer on the general war and postwar situation, but Russia, for instance, is not at war with Japan and would not be likely to participate in any discussion of specific problems involving the war with Nippon.

To See War Factories

No speech dates have yet been announced for Eden, but in line with the policy followed by Prime Minister Churchill on his first wartime visit to Washington the foreign secretary is expected to make one or two public addresses.

He expects to spend at least part of his time in this country visiting war factories and military establishments.

Eden's visit shared attention with domestic tax and food issues. On Capitol Hill a measure to nullify President Roosevelt's order limiting salaries to $25,000 a year (after taxes) reached the senate following heated congressional opposition to what some of [illegible] term "government by decree."

The legislation passed the house yesterday after two days of the bitterest debate of the 78th con-

SOUSSE, TUNIS BOMB TARGETS

Allied Planes Take To Air As Tunisian Ground Action Dwindles.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, March 13—Allied bombers blasted military objectives of Sousse and Tunis with fire-setting raids yesterday and attacked both land and sea transport of the axis as ground fighting on the Tunisian front dwindled again to patrolling.

The Eighth army's lines in the Mareth line sector, having thrown off probing thrusts by Field Marshal Erwin Rommel with a violence that cost him heavy casualties, remained unchanged, a comunique said.

Quick Victory Unlikely

Victory in Tunisia—the first requisite for a future allied front in southern Europe—has become a tantalizing will-o'the-wisp which veteran fighting men in the battle zone speak of in terms of months, not weeks.

There can be no doubt this axis bridgehead in Africa will be smashed. But on an eleven-day flying tour from African headquarters to the area before the Mareth line, the magnitude of the job facing Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's ground and air forces makes as sharp and painful an impression as a punch on the nose.

Working with a task force of the British Eighth army which has pursued axis Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces for more than 1,500 miles, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery in the Mareth area is smack up against a 40-mile bottleneck between the sea and the weather-scarred hills which is tougher than the El Alamein position between the Mediterranean and the salt marshes to the south in Egypt.

Has Air Superiority

Montgomery has never been without numerical air superiority over the enemy and he can turn on heavy air assaults to soften the opposition to his next moves.

The RAF reported yesterday it had destroyed 21 vehicles out of 40 employed against allied ground forces in the western desert fighting.

Low-lying fighters and bombers tore at axis ground forces throughout the day, leaving German motorized units in flames.

But only in the air over Tunisia have the allies yet established a clear-cut edge.

Montgomery's desert-worn General Grant and General Sherman tanks face German panzer divisions newly imported from Sicily, some of them using the Mark VI tanks.

Regardless of their long retreat from the borders of Egypt Rommel's forces have been coached into a high state of morale.

German pilots shot down last week cockily told RAF intelligence officers "we will be back in Tripoli soon."

BUCYRUS WOMAN KILLED BY TRAIN

Dies Instantly When Car Is Hit at Crossing.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, March 13—Killed instantly when the car in which she was riding was struck by a fast west bound freight train, Mrs. Alberta Schwab, 29, machine operator on the night shift at the General Electric plant met her death at the West Mansfield street crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad at 2 p. m. Friday.

Members of the crew of the train were unaware of the accident and were advised at Upper Sandusky, railroad officials reported.

The impact threw the car against a steel railroad marker which was broken off at the base and against a telephone pole, wrapping the car completely about the pole. Passersby assisted police in removing the body from the wreckage. Mrs. Schwab was riding alone and police were unable to account for the accident.

Mrs. Schwab was born in Attica Nov. 29, 1913, the daughter of Stephen and Mary Schiley Hammond. Survivors include the mother, living in Brandywine, O., a son Albert Kinder; two brothers, Dorsey Hammond with whom the victim lived at 312 West Galen street and Ralph of the Army air corp, now stationed in Macon, Ga., and sister, Mrs. Harold Stoddard of Tiffin.

TEST OF OPA RULES LOOMS IN CALIFORNIA

Dairymen Demand Higher Price for Milk.

By The Associated Press

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 13—If central American banana growers can get an OPA price boost as a "financial attraction," California dairymen should get the same consideration, state officials contended today as they mapped plans for a legal test of office of price administration authority.

Gov. Earl Warren called attention to an OPA order this week raising the importing price ceiling on bananas $1 per hundred weight to aid Central American growers, while California dairymen pleaded vainly for higher milk price levels to stave off an impending milk famine.

Warren authorized preliminary study on a test case challenging the OPA's right to establish price ceilings on purely local and intrastate food sales.

Rebellious and resentful state legislators, backing Warren, charged the OPA was run by "half-baked theorists" trying to establish government by decree.

HARD FIGHTING REPORTED AT KHARKOV GATES

Russians Say Nazis Press Attack Despite Heavy Loss of Men.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 13—The Red Army defending Kharkov has repulsed enemy attacks in violent engagements west of the city but the Germans continued their push in the night's fighting, the Russian noon communique as recorded by the Soviet radio monitor here said today.

"Disregarding their tremendous losses in manpower and material, the Hitlerites continued their push towards the city," the war bulletin said.

"In two days of fighting, units of 'X' formation destroyed 36 German tanks and more than 100 trucks and killed several thousand Germans.

"South of Kharkov Red Army men of 'X' formation disabled or burned out 11 German tanks and killed about 300 German officers and men."

Claim 18,000 Executed

The communique broadcast was delayed after its regular period. The Moscow radio devoted that time instead to repeating a special announcement of last night which said 18,000 men, women and children had been shot or poisoned by the Germans during their occupation of Rostov. The playing of funeral music followed its reading.

The midday communique also said the Russians were expanding their offensive west of newly-won Vyazma where more than 9,000 Germans were killed.

Several towns were captured west of the city and German garrisons along heavily-fortified defense lines retreated in disorder when they were faced by encirclement, the war bulletin said.

About 400 enemy dead and a large quantity of arms remained on the battlefield, it was declared.

More Towns Taken

Several more towns were captured south of Bely, which is 80 miles northeast of Smolensk, in a Red Army advance which overwhelmed German resistance, the Russians said.

The Russians said they rescued from German guns 1,500 villagers who had been herded into the town of Namenka by the Germans from neighboring settlements in the Vyazma area.

"The Hitlerites intended to exterminate the peaceful residents and already had started shooting wholesale when the Soviet automatic riflemen suddenly attacked the German bandits and saved the collective farmers from inevitable death," it was asserted.

The Soviet midnight communique conceded that the Germans had driven the Kharkov defenders back to new defense lines west of the city, emphasizing that their enemy was fighting with superior forces.

New Congressman Puts Plan for Ohio Area Development Up to President

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13 — Right to President Roosevelt went Rep. Walter E. Brehm with his plan for long-range development of the southeastern Ohio hill country.

The Logan, O., Republican, who handed the President a letter outlining the plan at the White House reception for newly-elected congressmen, said the Chief Executive expressed great interest and promised to give the matter his personal attention.

The plan calls for development of the mineral, timber, agricultural, industrial and recreational resources of the area.

Brehm considered for days the propriety of discussing the plan with the busy President and hadn't made up his mind even when he entered the White House with the letter in his pocket. He made it a point to get on the end of a receiving line on the theory the last man would have more time to talk.

Noticing that the smiling President seemed unhurried, Brehm brought up the subject as the two shook hands.

"Mr. President," he asked, "may I talk out of turn on a matter of importance to me?"

The President not only assured Brehm he would be glad to have the plan, the Ohioan said, but discussed it with interest.

Brehm's letter suggested that even in war time some action should be taken to assure development of the "distressed areas of the nation."

"If you were not so busily engaged on all fronts," the letter said, "I would certainly seek an appointment to discuss this plan in detail, but under the circumstances I will not do so at this time:

"The distressed areas of our nation, of which my district is one, must have a tangible, definite, long-range program if they are to benefit in the 'more abundant life.' They can not hope to exist on the theory of 'take no heed of the morrow what it shall bring forth.'

"This program, I assure you, is not a partisan, political issue. It goes beyond petty politics and reaches to the very heart of social and economic security for the vast majority of our people."

Brehm told the President no other section affords a more "favorable opportunity to serve as a proving ground to convince the skeptical that planning programs are not the idle prattlings of a dreamer or ideologist, but democracy at work in a really democratic way."

Death Strikes J. P. Morgan As He Vacations In Gulf

Head of Famed Banking House Dies on Island Off Florida Coast.

BOCA GRANDE, Fla., March 13—John Pierpont Morgan of New York, wizard of finance and the ruler of a tremendous banking empire, died at 3:15 a. m. today at this isolated Gulf of Mexico island to which he had come for a vacation at fishing.

The 75-year-old financier succumbed to a recurring heart ailment which twice before in recent years had stricken him. He lapsed into a coma three days ago and never regained consciousness.

The multi-millionaire head of the House of Morgan became ill Feb. 25 on a train enroute to Boca Grande. Upon his arrival, he walked the two blocks from the railroad station to a resort cottage at the exclusive Gasparilla Inn. He went to bed immediately and, although twice he rallied and made progress, never fully recovered.

With Morgan at the end were a son, Lieut. Comdr. Henry Sturgis Morgan of the Naval reserve who had arrived a few hours earlier, and a daughter, Mrs. Paul G. Pennoyer. Another daughter, Mrs. George Nichols, had been at the beside earlier, but left when her father appeared to be winning his fight. She could not get back in time. The financier's elder son, Comdr. Junius Spencer Morgan, is on foreign duty with the Navy.

The body will be taken to New York.

Father Founded Bank

Morgan had been in bed for more than a week before the outside world learned he was ill. The first word came from his office at 23 Wall Street in New York.

Son of the first John Pierpont Morgan who founded the famous banking firm in the 1890's, Morgan headed the firm through the first World war, the world depression of the 1930's and in this second World war.

During the first World war, his bank handled for the allies loans amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars and after the war floated billions of dollars in loans in Wall Street for foreign governments.

Morgan's last public statement was issued Sept. 18, 1942.

"Nowhere in these days," he said, "can a safer investment be found for savings than U. S. governments and of all the issues the war savings bonds seem the most advantageous."

He was wounded by an assailant seeking to discourage his efforts in helping the allies in the first World war; the well-guarded bank building at 23 Wall street was scarred by a mysterious blast in 1920; in 1933 a senate investigation opened to the public view, for the first time, the bank's records and its varied enterprises.

Resembled Father

In 1940 the name of the firm was changed from J. P. Morgan and company, a partnership, to J. P. Morgan and Company, Inc., Morgan became board chairman instead of a partner.

Morgan resembled his father, weighing about 200 pounds, broad shoulders, heavy eyebrows, small eyes, large nose and the same tone of voice.

In later years he grew increas-

STEPHEN VINCENT BENET STRICKEN IN NEW YORK

American Poet and Story Writer Dies Today.

CORN PRICES BELOW PARITY

Order Keeping Quotations Down Threatens New Farm Bloc Row.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13 — Signs of a split within the administration's economic high command over farm price policies bobbed up today as the office of price administration ordered sub-parity price ceilings continued on the country's major agricultural commodity—corn.

The OPA action came as an admitted surprise to farm leaders who earlier had been informed by sources close to Secretary of Agriculture Wickard that the administration had decided to make a concession to the congressional farm bloc in the form of parity corn ceiling.

Continuance of the sub-parity ceilings was directed by Economic Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes. Under the price control law Wickard has power to veto OPA farm ceilings except when overruled by Byrnes.

Matter Not Settled

Shortly after the OPA order was issued, a spokesman for the agriculture department authorized the statement that "the matter has not been settled yet." The spokesman said Wickard believed it was necessary the ceiling be raised to the parity level in order to prevent a possible breakdown in the government's livestock, dairy and poultry production programs.

Back of the whole question is the insistence of congressional

ESSEN TARGET SECOND TIME SINCE MARCH 5

Hundreds of Tons of Bombs Poured on City: 23 Bombers Lost.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 13—Heaping new destruction on German targets on top of a record smash at Essen by the RAF last night, a great fleet of U. S. Army air force heavy bombers thundered across the English channel to the Boulogne area early this afternoon.

Vapor trails streaming out behind the United States sky giants stretched from coast to coast of the channel, pointing the way to the bastions of Adolf Hitler's European citadel, which has been under almost constant day and night assault for 17 days.

Escorted by fighters the American bombers soared nearly five miles high under the bright sun and soon returned from the direction of Dieppe, indicating their targets had been only a short distance inland.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 13.—Britain's giant bombers rained hundreds of tons of block-busters on Essen in the German Ruhr before dawn today, blasting the great Krupp munitions works in what apparently was the heaviest RAF attack of 1943.

Twenty-three RAF bombers were officially listed as missing, but the British air ministry declared:

"This did not prevent the attack from being pressed home with the greatest determination. All the crews are enthusiastic in their reports."

A cloud of four-engined planes poured the attack on Essen exceeding that which burned and shattered 450 acres of that city March 5.

The air ministry had described last week's raid as probably the heaviest blow of the aerial war, more than 1,000 tons of bombs ruining dozens of the Krupp war plant's buildings and leaving 30,000 homeless, but it said last night's raid was better still.

The pilots of the great force over the city last night said smoke from the carpet of fire set by the block-buster bombs and incendiaries reached a height of 15,000 feet.

Heavy Ground Defense

Of the ground defenses strenghtened so much since the raid last week, one pilot said the Germans "seemed determined we shouldn't get through" and 23 bombers did not return.

The air ministry's description of the attack indicated much more than 1,000 tons of bombs were tumbled on the munitions center, but details of the destruction will have to await reconnaissance.

The crews reported two big explosions within ten minutes after the raid began last night. They said a sheet of fire from one blast reached the height of a 1,000 feet and they "could see the glow of flames when they crossed the Dutch coast on the way home," about 125 miles from the target.

The air ministry news service said the defenses of Essen had been "notably strengthened since the last attack and heavy flak (anti-aircraft fire) was intense and accurate."

"There also were numerous searchlights," the news service said.

"Twenty-three of our bombers were lost, but this did not prevent the attack from being pressed home with the greatest determination," the service added.

"Powerful as the defenses were the flak became more spasmodic as the weight of the concentrated attack was felt and the guns and searchlights around the aiming points gradually faltered. All the crews are enthusiastic in their reports."

Problems of Youth

A SERMONETTE

By REV. [illegible] RAPHAEL DALLAS

Pastor [illegible] Oakland Evangelical Church

Text: John 12:2[illegible]—"If any man serve Me, let him follow Me."

"PROBLEMS of Y[illegible] [illegible] days [illegible] and Andrew [illegible] Nathaniel, [illegible] of Jesus, Nicodemus [illegible] and the blind man [illegible] followed Him in the way. These were [illegible] of today. They were [illegible] but the Rich Ruler who [illegible] turned away, we have got his name. That was not because he was rich, but because he was not willing to pay the price.

We hear a lot today about following Christ in prayer, in the Scriptures and so on, but I want to suggest here that we think of following Him in all of living. And I mean living today with all the problems that youth faces. Let us think of Him as a Teacher, a Preacher, a Healer, a Helper. And what a grand privilege it is to linked up with one who is recognized as the world's greatest in all these lines. But those were the days when the Priests of the Temple were demoralized with greed and hate. At the great church meeting held in Oxford some time ago there was formed this sentence "Let the Church Be THE CHURCH." They were thinking of living but with reference to a far greater degree of sacrifice than before. In this world there is a great need of Christian Social Action. We are in a world torn by conflict in thought, and in purpose. Some seem to have gone mad with lust for power. There is a frightful disregard for truth, integrity, and even for life. Especially is this true when it is the life of someone else. The destruction of property, homes, and even the sorrows of women and children seem to mean little.

WHEREVER we look we see the need of the way of Jesus Christ Who said "They who live by the sword, must perish by the sword." Then there are the general social conditions which challenge the best that is in youth today. The trend of modern life is not conducive to happy homes, or happy family circles and surely not conducive to high morals. Class against class, prejudice and selfishness, are abroad in the land. Today it is hard for young people to stem the tide. But if this land remains worthy of the sacrifices our young men and some young women are making to preserve it as a free nation the young folks of today in the Army and [illegible] There [illegible] through [illegible] whether you [illegible] the next day or not. Sabbath desecration [illegible] and the whole American [illegible] is threatened on every side for the sake of someone else getting rich off of you.

I can't go it here, but to offset all this may I suggest that right now you sit down and take a pencil and paper and make up a list of things worthy of youth and take them to the very next meeting of your group and make these a matter of discussion and decision. Just to start you here are a couple—better officials, better friends, finer homes, cleaner society, deep prayer life, loyalty to church, sound Christian lives, one consolidated movement in Marion for Christianity, that includes all Christian youth.

REV. W. L. MULLET, above, singing evangelist, will hold services at Oakland Evangelical church March 15 through March 18 each night at 7:30 p. m. Rev. Mullet leads the singing at Camp Sychar and is a member of the Ohio Conference of the Evangelical church, under appointment by this denomination as evangelist. The meetings will be open to the public.

Mid-week Lenten services in Marion churches next week will be built around themes appropriate to observance of the period and pastors have planned series of sermons with pre-Easter backgrounds and tomorrow, the first Sunday of Lent, will be marked by a number of ministers with special sermons. The Lenten season opened on Ash Wednesday this week.

Services on Wednesday night will be conducted in St. Paul Episcopal church, Rev. S. S. Hardy, rector, announced, and in Emanuel Lutheran church Rev. M. E. Hollensen will preach on "Christ Endured Gethsemane" Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

First Prayer In Congress Timely for Nation Today

The first prayer offered in congress is as timely today when the United States is engaged in fighting in a global war as when the colonies were struggling for their independence, a copy of the prayer, printed in 1777, shows.

A reprint of it has been owned for more than 40 years by Rev. L. V. Hite of the Brush Ridge Primitive Baptist church who, upon rereading it recently said that such phrases as the following from the petition of the Rev. Jacob Duene sound a note that would appeal to many hearers today. It reads in part: "O Lord [illegible] look down in mercy, we beseech Thee, on these American [illegible] To Thee have they appealed for the righteousness of their cause. [illegible]

An F. H. A. Loan

Is Available for Maintenance of Your Property . . .

Our government considers it essential to the future security of the people that property be kept in good repair. It is wartime economy too, to attend to repair needs before they reach costly proportions—in terms of materials and cash. That is why the Federal Housing Administration has established loans for home owners at this time. Of course it is understood that such loans are not available merely for remodeling the "style" of a home; but if the structure, foundation, interior or exterior surfaces are beginning to give way—or if a house can be remodeled to provide an extra room for a war worker, the loan can be had on government regulated terms that are easy to pay back out of wages or income. What is your property-maintenance problem? Delay is unpatiotic!

400 Active in Girl Scouts

MRS. ERNEST O. SMITH

Organization Now Seeking More Adult Leaders Had Modest Start in Marion in 1919.

As Marion Girl Scouts today continued their campaign for additional adult leaders, launched yesterday on the thirty-first anniversary of Girl Scouting in America, officials of the organization reviewed briefly the history of the movement both in the nation and in Marion.

Among the leaders in Girl Scout work in Marion now are Mrs. Ernest O. Smith, who is in her third year as Marion Girl Scout commissioner, and Miss Edith Treat, executive secretary, who has served in that capacity since November of 1941.

They pointed out that the first Girl Scout troop in Marion was organized in 1919 and soon grew so large as to be divided into two troops. From a beginning of 38 girls and a few interested adults, Girl Scouting in Marion has grown to where there are now more than 400 girls and adults.

First Marion Sponsor

The first Community committee sponsoring Girl Scouting in Marion was formed in March 1933 through the assistance of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs. One person from each club became a member of the Community committee and for several years all financial support came through the federation. In 1936 Girl Scouting in Marion was pretty well on its feet and the Community committee became the Marion Girl Scout Council and the community as a whole began to support Girl Scouting.

Members of the Marion Girl Scout Council are: Mrs. Smith, commissioner; Mrs. J. E. Frew, first deputy; Miss Ruth Kramer, second deputy; Mrs. J. E. Oliphant, treasurer; Mrs. J. W. Wiant, secretary; Mrs. D. N. Bohyer, Mrs. R. G. Donley, Mrs. John M. Gardner, Mrs. E. E. Holt, camp chairman, Mrs. Ellis Houghton, Mrs. Clifford M. Howser, Miss Elma Howser, training chairman, Mrs. Ray King, chairman of finance, Miss Ruth Kleinmaier, office chairman, Miss Mary Kull, Mrs. Jesse Lott, Mrs. W. R. Martin, Mrs. Richard Myers, public relations chairman, Mrs. Abe Schoen, Mrs. Elmer E. Smith, Mrs. Frank Thomas, membership chairman, Mrs. Ben T. Wiant, Mrs. Fillmore Young, Miss Marguerite Gehring, Miss Esther Eggleston, representative from leaders' association, and Miss Treat, executive secretary.

This month not only marks the tenth anniversary of the organization of the first Community committee to sponsor Girl Scouting in Marion, but also the thirty-first anniversary, on March 12 of the founding of Girl Scouting in the United States.

Originated in England

Girl Scouting was brought to this country from England by Juliette Low, who had become interested in the program through her friendship with Lord Baden-Powell, originator of Scouting for both boys and girls. In March 1912, on her return to her home in Savannah from England, Mrs. Low began her campaign to bring Girl Scouting to the girls of America by telephoning her friend, Miss Nina Pape, head mistress of a girls' school, saying, "Come right over. I've got something for the girls of Savannah and all America, and all the world and we are going to start in tonight." Miss Pape came, helped make plans, and three days later the first Girl Scout troop was organized.

From then on the Girl Scout movement spread rapidly. In 1927, when Mrs. Low died, membership had reached 167,925. Today there are nearly 600,000 girls, and more than 140,000 adults enrolled as troop leaders, assistant leaders, consultants and members of councils or committees. For some time the waiting list of would-be Girl Scouts has been outgrowing the number of available adult volunteer leaders. Since Pearl Harbor this situation has become even more acute, with thousands of girls writing to councils, national headquarters, The American Girl magazine, and individual leaders asking to be admitted to the Girl Scout program of training and war activities. The national organization's present leadership campaign is the result of this increased demand.

Meanwhile nine northern Ohio meat slaughterers and packers were enjoined in federal court at Cleveland from violating OPA regulations.

Only One State Bridge Shows Toll Increase

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 13—The state bridge commission reported today wartime travel restrictions resulted in revenue decreases for three Ohio-owned spans last year but use of a fourth bridge by war workers boosted tolls to a near-national record increase.

Ray Palmer, commission secretary-treasurer, said 1942 revenues from the Sandusky bay bridge dropped 23.8 per cent under the previous year and those from the Ohio river spans at Steubenville and East Liverpool 33.8 and 32 per cent, respectively.

By contrast, revenues from the Ohio river bridge at Pomeroy gained 188.8 per cent. Gross revenue was $120,338 compared with $41,677 the year before. War workers employed at the General Chemical Defense Corp. at Point Pleasant, W. Va., accounted for the boost in tolls, he explained.

I Hitch-Hike the Alcan Highway

How the Northland Soldiers Eat

Last of a series of six articles about the Alcan highway.

By SAM JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

EDMONTON, Alberta, March 12—A trail medical officer along the Alcan Highway went to his commanding officer and said: "Unless these men get some fresh meat in one week I am going to make a personal report to the surgeon-general."

The meat came through.

Many men in the 30 or 40 stations I visited, in hitch-hiking 1,000 miles on the new road, have somehow got the idea that they are "expendable"—that they are to be liquidated for the sake of the road.

I had ample opportunity to talk with the officers of the Northwest Service Command at Whitehorse. I could see that this was not true. They want the men to be comfortable and they want them to have furloughs.

Hardships Cause Bitterness

But this job is a whale of an operation, and you can't do everything at once. Yet some of the men, feeling the onslaught of the long, northern winter, get pretty bitter.

Contractors for the Public Roads Administration who have to keep their men on a voluntary basis, manage to get through everything they want.

One of the most lavish and one of the most frugal meals I have had in my life were taken within 30 miles on the Alaska road. The first was taken at a contractor's camp, the second at the Army's.

E. W. Elliot, who is under contract for a number of Army jobs, said the chief worry of his Seattle office, next to getting and keeping men, was buying food. But they seem to know how. At two of his general mess tables where I dined there was soup, unlimited servings of one or more meats, three or more vegetables, two kinds of dessert, a multitude of condiments and sauces and as much coffee as you could drink.

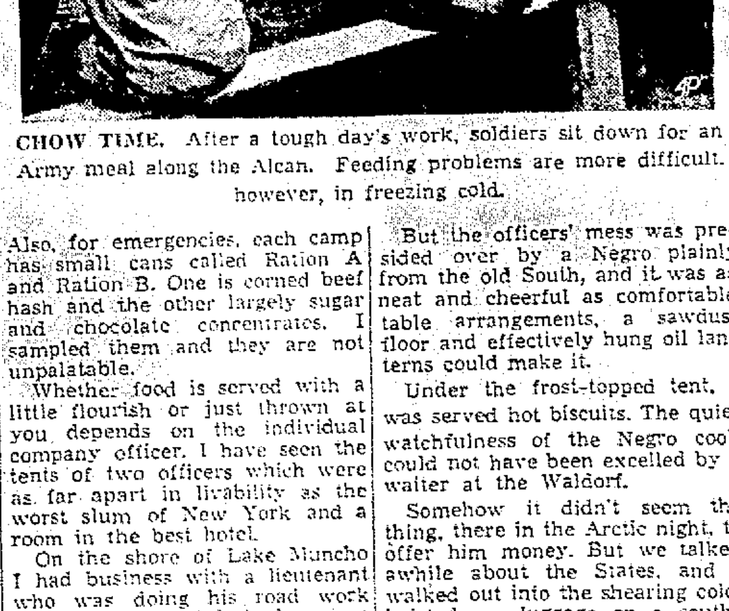
Up here, the mere appearance of a civilian is an invitation to dinner, and seldom is a charge made.

Food Freezes

At many of the less developed camps, you have to stand in line with a messkit in 30 below weather waiting for a quick handout. If you try to get back to your tent with your food it practically freezes. You soon learn to duck into some nearer tent where there's a seat, or if you must have it hot you just stand on the spot and eat it with your fingers.

One phenomenon of the food is the exceptionally good bread. Army bakers make it and put it outdoors immediately. The instant freezing preserves its fresh qualities, and when thawed it's "just like mother makes."

Issue of vitamin pills supplements the food when necessary.



CHOW TIME. After a tough day's work, soldiers sit down for an Army meal along the Alcan. Feeding problems are more difficult, however, in freezing cold.

Also, for emergencies, each camp has small cans called Ration A and Ration B. One is corned beef hash and the other largely sugar and chocolate concentrates. I sampled them and they are not unpalatable.

Whether food is served with a little flourish or just thrown at you depends on the individual company officer. I have seen the tents of two officers which were as far apart in livability as the worst slum of New York and a room in the best hotel.

On the shore of Lake Muncho I had business with a lieutenant who was doing his road work doggedly and well, but whose tent was several degrees below a cartoonist's version of how the caveman lived.

But the officers' mess was presided over by a Negro plainly from the old South, and it was as neat and cheerful as comfortable table arrangements, a sawdust floor and effectively hung oil lanterns could make it.

Under the frost-topped tent, I was served hot biscuits. The quiet watchfulness of the Negro cook could not have been excelled by a waiter at the Waldorf.

Somehow it didn't seem the thing, there in the Arctic night, to offer him money. But we talked awhile about the States, and I walked out into the shearing cold, hoisted my luggage on a south-bound truck and started on my way to Edmonton feeling like a king.

Pipe Painting Offers Easy Identification

In a Chicago plant recently completed an extremely practical use of color has been made. Various pipes throughout the building are painted for easy identification.

All sprinkler pipes for fire protection are painted in aluminum paint, all steam pipes are light yellow and all water supply pipes are light green. All steel work around the plant is painted light gray.

WILLKIE ARGUES RED CASE IN SUPREME COURT

Defends Communist in Naturalization Case.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13. — Wendell L. Willkie argued before the supreme court yesterday that cancellation of the United States citizenship of an alien merely because he was a member of the Communist party would constitute "a drastic abridgement of freedom of political belief and thought as well as freedom of speech."

Speaking rapidly and vigorously, the 1940 Republican presidential nominee protested the cancellation of citizenship obtained in 1927 by William Schneiderman, state secretary of the Communist party for California and a native of Russia.

"Congress alone can make active membership in the Communist party of America a bar to naturalization and congress has not done so," he asserted.

Opposing him was Solicitor General Charles Fahy, who contended that Schneiderman's citizenship should be cancelled because both he and the Communist party in 1927 "believed in, advocated and taught the overthrow of this government by force and violence."

Building Quiz

Q.: I understand there is a possibility of electrical power shortage because of the demands of war industries. What can we, as home owners, do to conserve power and avert such a shortage?

A.: According to the department of commerce, there is a definite possibility of an electrical power shortage. However, the department says that if all users—industry, service, and the home—co-ordinate the time and amount of their demand, power will be available to meet all vital needs. Home owners can co-operate by limiting their use of power as much as possible during the day when the power requirements of war industries are at their highest. Since electrical refrigerators represent a large percentage of electrical consumption, it is suggested that they be placed in cooler, even if less accessible, places. Other savings can be made by eliminating decorative and other unnecessary lighting.

Q.: We have a single oak floor in the living room and the beams are open in the cellar. The floors are always cold in the winter. How can we remedy this?

A.: Cold floors are an indication of excessive heat leakage in the basement. It would be advisable to see that all cellar windows fit well and are tightly closed. The cellar ceiling may be covered with a rigid insulation board, which, if applied so that the board extends to the exterior walls of the building, will form a dead-air space between the beams and effect a double insulation. In view of the national effort to conserve fuel it is particularly important that everything be done to eliminate heat seepage and fuel waste.

INSTRUCTORS FOR SCHOOL DRILL TO BE TRAINED

State Guard Company Captain To Give Instruction.

Ex-service men or men who have had some military training and who are interested in becoming an instructor of military drill in the city and county school Victory Corps program will be given special instruction, Robert Brown, county chairman of the military drill plan, announced today.

Capt. Carl Ebert of Co. H, Ohio State Guard, has arranged for the instruction to be given Tuesday night of each week with the regular State Guard drill at the Armory.

Men who cannot train on Tuesday night may attend the regular drill of the Marion Ambulance Corps on Monday nights at the Armory.

When the military drill program is installed in all county schools and at St. Mary, Harding and Edison schools in Marion, a total of 15 instructors will be required, with approximately that many in reserve.

First drill of the city public and parochial high school boys will be conducted Wednesday night in the Armory.

Washing Walls Before Painting Improves Job

Kitchen and bathroom walls, ceilings and floors are likely to acquire greasy film, and should be thoroughly washed with soap and water and then well rinsed with clean water before repainting. The surfaces should be thoroughly dry before the new paint is applied.

HOUSING PLAN A SUCCESS

LOWELL, Mass. — The state board of housing has closed its records on the 25-year old account of Homestead Row in Lowell, oldest publicly financed housing project in New England. The 12 single-family homes are now completely owned by moderate income families who a quarter century ago could never have hoped to own homes without a state subsidy. The commonwealth made an $8,000 profit on the original legislative appropriation of $50,000 of which $6,744 was returned unexpended.

Suggestions for Summer Care of Hot Water and Steam Heating Systems

Summer care of the heating plant is as important as winter care. More heating plants rust out than wear out.

In the interest of better heating costs, and metal conservation, helpful suggestions have been offered on summer care of hot water and steam heating plants.

Most hot water and steam heating boilers are made of cast iron. While cast iron will resist corrosion better than any other material, there are certain conditions under which rust will gain headway.

While moisture alone will cause rusting of iron, heating plants are exposed to the additional hazard of moisture combined with sulphur which is always present in ash and soot. The combination of moisture and sulphur has a highly corrosive effect on the boiler flues, on the firebox doors, on the smoke pipe, ash pit, and indeed, all exposed surfaces.

Preventive Measures

The preventive is a thorough cleaning of the boiler and the smoke pipe. All dust, fly ash, soot, and scale should be carefully removed from all interior and exterior surfaces. Cleansing of the heating plant is equally important irrespective of whether the boiler is fired with coal, oil, or gas.

After the boiler has been cleaned all surfaces should be sprayed with a light lubricating oil as for instance crank case drainings. It is advisable to use an oil gun with bent stem so that all corners and narrow places will be reached.

This simple care, namely thorough cleaning and spraying with oil, will add many years to the life of the boiler. In fact, the Bureau points out that it is not unusual for cast iron boilers to give 50 years or more of good service if they receive the proper care, summer as well as winter.

The doors of the boiler should be left open so that basement air can circulate freely through the firebox and flues, thus preventing the accumulation of moisture.

Experts seem to disagree as to whether or not it is best to drain a hot water boiler during the summer. The majority opinion is that the boiler should not be drained inasmush as there is no danger of corrosion inside of the boiler. Some authorities, however, point out that in the case of a boiler in a very damp location, condensation is lessened if the boiler is empty and thus in some cases, draining might be desirable. Your heating contractor will know if your boiler should be drained.

Guard Against Dampness

Oil burners and stokers should also be protected against dampness. The main burner switch should be turned off and the gas pilot, if any, turned off. Machined surfaces should be covered with a light oil or grease.

Everything that has been said applies to the heating plant which is shut for the summer. In recent years, most of the newer hot water and steam heating plants have a summer and winter domestic water heating hook-up [illegible] summer as well as in the winter. This not only protects the boiler against corrosion but also prevents dampness in the basement as well as providing a most economical source on domestic hot water.

Heating and piping contractors have the equipment and experience to do an expert job of cleaning and boiler maintenance. Home-owners will find that it pays to let an expert do the job and take full responsibility for the summer conditioning of the plant.

MONKS PAINT MAKERS

Monks in the Twelfth century are credited with having produced much better types of varnish than had previously been obtainable by inventing processes for adding linseed oil to resins.

Savings & Loan Insurance Agency Resources Grow

During 1942, resources of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation increased from [illegible] to [illegible], Oscar R. Kreutz, general manager of the Corporation announced today. Net incomes from operations for the year was $7,037,278.

Established by congress in 1934 with a paid-in capital of $100,000,000, the Insurance Corporation has met operating expenses over its eight and one-half years and all losses to date, and built nearly $38,000,000 of reserves and surplus. Almost all of its assets are United States Government bonds, with a market worth well in excess of book value.

The Corporation now protects savers and investors in about 2,400 insured savings and loan associations throughout the country, up to $5,000 each.

About 75 per cent of the lawn mower industry has been converted to war production.

More Equalization

ANNOUNCEMENT of meat, [illegible] cheese, fats, oils and canned [illegible] rationing starting March 29 means that the equality principle already applied to canned fruits and vegetables and some frozen and dried commodities will cover actually everything on the preserved food front.

There is no longer any question of propriety in rationing, only a question of timing. Meat and butter rationing have been delayed. There has been much unnecessary hardship. Whatever resentment there may have been left among the people after their experiences with coffee, for instance, certainly has been overcome by their worse experiences with meat and butter. The effect of equalizing consumption of these commodities will be to minimize inconvenience, not to increase it.

It is plain now that the tremendous dislocations caused by total war must be equalized by equitable distribution of available supplies, yet less than a year ago the thought of rationing still was abhorrent to the general public. Experience has been a hard teacher, but a thorough one. There is no place in the emergency of total war for special advantage. Rationing has done more to maintain morale than any other decision made on the home front.

Working Their Way

NOW THAT the American people have learned from Edward R. Stettinius via the American Magazine the inside story of where their food is going, isn't it time to wonder why this vital public information was dished out to one particular magazine? The lend-lease administrator doesn't need to depend on his pay from the government to make ends meet; he lacks the financial excuse of other officials who have been working their way through the New Deal era by helping to sell magazine subscriptions. Surely, information to which the people are entitled should not become even temporarily the property of any special publication, enabling it to claim, as American Magazine now claims, that its advertisers are doubly blessed because it is "a major medium of the people who make policies."

The American Society of Newspaper Editors adopted this resolution at their annual meeting last month: "Resolved, that the action of Secretary of State Hull in publishing the recent White Book be commended, the hope of the American Society of Newspaper Editors being that this marks the beginning of a policy whereby the government will officially inform the public of facts to which the people are entitled, instead of giving this information, as in the past, to privileged writers who, with their publishers, have reaped unearned financial rewards by commercializing that which belongs to all the people."

If Mr. Stettinius has a lend-lease story to tell, he should tell it through regular news channels. No American should have to read any particular magazine to find out what his government is doing with his food and his money.

Today and Tomorrow

NOT TO BE outdone by the British with their publicized Beveridge plan, the Roosevelt administration has produced its version of complete social security in the United States. This proposal comes from the national resources planning board, the object of sufficiently critical attention by certain congressmen to have been deprived of its appropriation by the house appropriations committee.

This fact is important as a clue to the congressional atmosphere in which the planning board's proposal has been introduced. It is not, in short, one of the things congressmen have been waiting breathlessly to welcome. It is not that they disagree with its purpose, which generally speaking is to create the terms of a fool-proof existence for all of us—an ancient and honorable congressional aim—but that they are preoccupied at the moment with more pressing problems, such as how to collect income taxes from the approximately 30,000,000 citizens now needed to support the government's wartime spending rate.

There is an unavoidable sense of unreality about social planning for the future in the middle of the war emergency. Perhaps it [illegible] morale for the escapists [illegible] are trying to live close to [illegible]; they ended their experiment [illegible] thinking abruptly on Dec. 7, 1941. They want the future to be bright and full of [illegible], but the present is [illegible].

It is interesting to [illegible] to know—that the social planners are busy with blueprints for the future. But what counts is the fact that the people of action are translating the blueprints for the present into weapons and all kinds of vital war production. After all, there won't be any social security to worry about one way or the other if the war isn't won—and won in a way that preserves the ability of human beings to produce the means of sustaining life, which is the only social security there is, in the final analysis.

Meanwhile, it will be pleasant to look forward to the time when it will be possible to argue at length and in safety [illegible] whether federal paternalism is the answer to mankind's perennial pursuit of security.

THE STARTLING [illegible] for an [illegible] of the food [illegible] the correct an- [illegible] Why is it [illegible] short- age of [illegible] foods in many [illegible] the American people [illegible] food in 1941 and 1942 [illegible] ever eaten [illegible] 20 years?

The year 1942 yielded the greatest [illegible] crop in the whole history of the country. Yet many staple foods [illegible] beef and butter have been scarce or almost unobtainable and it is now necessary to ration them.

Why is that? Why in the midst of statistical plenty is there in fact shortage?

It is not true that the food program of the department of agriculture has been a failure. Favored, it is true, by superb growing weather, the department induced a per capita production of food which was 123 per cent of the average for the years 1935-1939. That is far from a bad record, even though it could be argued that a more drastic program for wartime could have done still more.

Army, Lend-Lease

Nor can it honestly be said that the Army and lend-lease have taken the food out of our mouths. For after the Army had taken what it wanted, and after lend-lease had taken what it took, there was still much more food eaten per capita by American civilians than in the years immediately before the war.

What, then, is the reason why food has been scarce when there was so much of it? The reason is that the people have been unusually rich while food has by [illegible] been kept cheap.

In a capitalist economy like ours it is the rise and fall of prices which regulates the relation between supply and demand. When goods are scarce, the price goes up. This cuts down the demand and also stimulates production.

Now, ceilings suspend the working of this essential price mechanism and, without it, a free economy has no mechanism for bringing supply and demand together. That is why a few, to whom no one listened, have been insisting since 1941 that it was no good putting on price ceilings unless at once you set up the machinery of rationing.

Distribution Problem

In short, it is not inadequate production, not the Army and not lend-lease which have caused and are causing the civilian food problem. It is the absence of any orderly system of regulating the distribution of food.

There has been a great disparity between what was eaten by the different income groups. Now the well-to-do must lower their standard, while the wage earners have a higher standard. This is the effect of rationing—to make consumption more nearly equal.

The only alternative is to take off the ceiling and let prices run wild, each man for himself and the devil take the hindmost.

That is unthinkable and, therefore, having made up our minds to understand why rationing is necessary, we simply must pull ourselves together and make it work.

Sympathy

There are 189 veterans of World war I in congress—161 in the house, 28 in the senate. This means that more than 85 per cent of congress will be full of sympathy in all discussions of rehabilitation, hospitalization, and compensation for disabilities for veterans of World war II.

Two senators and six representatives date their experiences from the Spanish-American war. They are Senators Tom Connally (Tex) and Guy Gillette (Iowa) and Representatives Culkin, Michener, Rogers (Pa.), Wadsworth, White and Woodruff (Mich.). Sen. Gillette and Representatives Culkin and Woodruff also served in World war I.

Five senators and 36 representatives served with the Navy, so there's no likelihood that any branch will be slighted.

Hit Boss for Job

By The Associated Press

CAMP LEE, Va.—Private Paul Garner, one of the late Ted Healy's "hit-me-and-I'll-slap-you-back boys," is in the Army now, and one of his favorite yarns he tells his soldier buddies is about when he had his audition.

"Whaddaya think happened at my audition! I walked in and said, 'Mr. Healy, I'd like a job with you,' and he hauled off and hit me. Right in the puss," Garner said. "He hit me. So I jumped up and took a swing at him, and he said, 'You're hired. I like a guy that's quick on the reaction. You're hired.' So that was all the audition I had."

Our No. 1 Sub-Killer

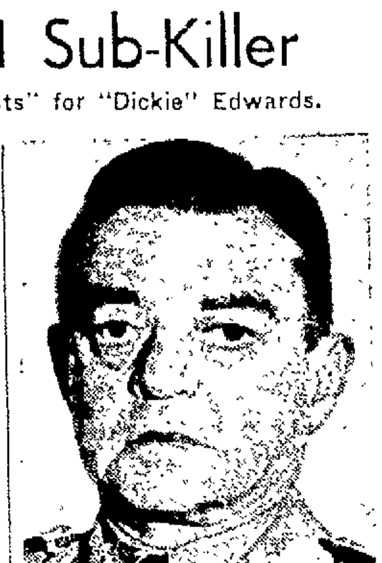
It's No Longer "Tea Fights" for "Dickie" Edwards.

By JOHN GROVER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, March 13—From the U. S. Naval Academy's No. 1 pitcher of woo to the U. S. Navy's No. 1 pitcher of depth bombs in 36 years is the service record of the admiral nobody knows—Vice Admiral Richard S. Edwards.

The 1907 academy year-book calls Ensign "Dickie" Edwards a "worldly-wise old man with a cherub's face" who specialized in "canoeing, tea fights and general parasol duty."

That's the same Admiral Edwards who now has one of the war's biggest jobs—busting Hitler's U-boat offensive. He's director of the U. S. anti-submarine campaign, chief of staff to the U. S. fleet commander in chief and Uncle Sam's No. 2 sailor. Long years in the submarine fleet, the "silent service," made him the least-known of the top-ranking Navy men.



VICE ADM. EDWARDS

Romance Deceptive

Don't be fooled by that romance stuff in the school book, though. The "thin man"—Admiral Ernest W. King, grim-lipped fleet commander and chief of naval operations, doesn't pick his right-hand man for social graces.

Admiral King was called to tighten up the Navy after the Pearl Harbor investigating commission found some gold braid was less than ship-shape. He reached 'way down the seniority list to promote Edwards, whose admiral's star is still new and shiny.

King knew Edwards' work. The thin man was commander of the Atlantic fleet when Edwards was in charge of the New London, Conn., submarine base. They say King has a long memory for a well-done job. He didn't have to remember farther than 1939 for an outstanding Edwards job. When the ill-fated Squalus went down, Edwards supervised the rescue and salvage work. He got the Navy Cross for that chore.

In pitting Admiral Edwards against Admiral Karl Doenitz, the Nazi navy's U-boat maestro, King [illegible] fire with fire. Admiral Edwards is a submarine man of 30 years' standing. He was still cherub-faced when he got his first command in 1913, as skipper of the first group submarine flotilla assigned to guard the new Panama canal.

He's a sub specialist, but did plenty of duty on surface ships in the last war, he served aboard the battlewagons Kentucky and Arkansas as engineering and gunnery officer, later skippered the destroyer Wood, was executive officer of the New Mexico and commanded the Colorado. He has an invaluable understanding of Army problems, too, from a tour of duty on the staff of the Army command and general staff school at Ft. Leavenworth.

"Day Off" on Sunday

Admiral Edwards gives the 40-hour week a drubbing on his present job. Night watchmen see his chunky figure coming in just before 8 a. m., and he's still around at 7 p. m. Sunday is his "day off." He works only from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Mrs. Edwards is strictly a "duty widow" these war days. Admiral Edwards has quarters aboard Admiral King's flagship, the ex-yacht Dauntless. There the Navy's big boss and his chief of staff can dig into any knotty problems unsettled at the end of their 12-hour office days. Admiral Edwards, like King, is just an occasional visitor in his own Washington apartment.

Admiral Edwards is a main line Philadelphian.

Camels Join Jeeps

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Camels are taking their place along with high speed trucks and jeeps in modern desert warfare. If properly cared for, says a report to the office of war information, they outlast motor vehicles by many years, their average life being 18 years. Most British camels come from the Punjab, India, and are put into active service, after special training, at the age of six.

A camel can do the work of four army mules, and four of the animals have the pulling strength of a truck. They are far less liable to injury than a horse, a mule or even a motor truck, and can take loads to a lot of places no motor could go.

Student Appraisal

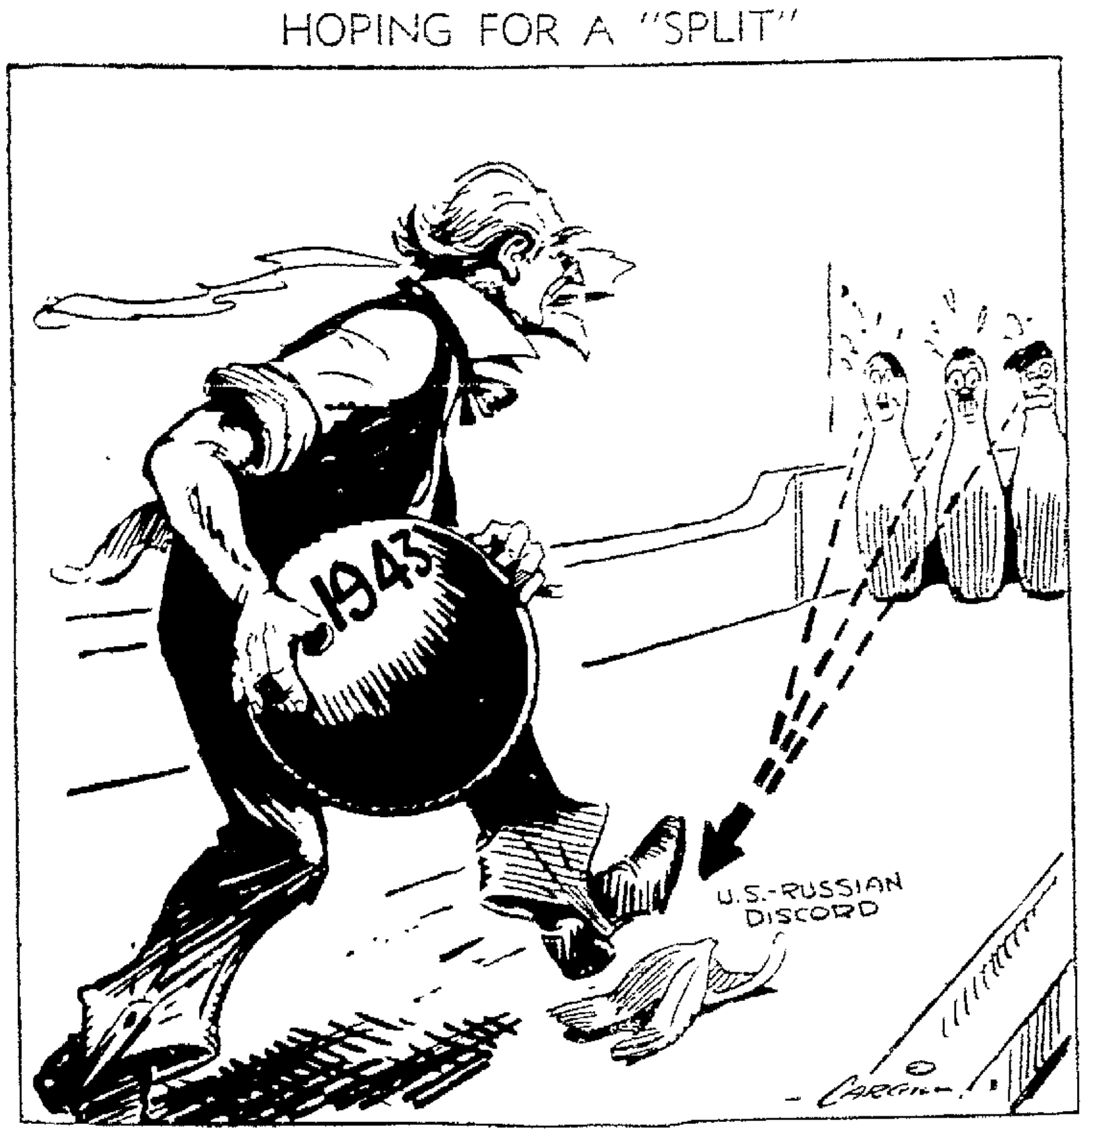
FORT HAYS, Kas. — The best college students finish their examinations either first or last, says Dr. Donald M. Johnson of the Fort Hays state college psychology department. Mediocre students usually complete their papers in the middle third of the period.

It's Dr. Johnson's theory that the first third of the students are speedy because of superior intelligence; the last third are the plodders who get good grades by pains and persistence; the middle third are the fellows who aren't interested in the subject.

HOPING FOR A "SPLIT"



From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Monday, March 13, 1933.

In a message that contained only two sentences, President Roosevelt asked congress to enact beer legislation immediately, and there were indications his request would be granted.

In response to the government's call for gold and "yellowback" currency, Marion residents had turned in $22,000 for currency of other than gold denomination, the city's banks reported.

Mrs. Frank A. Huber, 47, wife of a former president of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., died at her home on East Church street.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. William F. Jones of Oak Grove avenue.

In response to repeated demands of the Marion Taxpayers association for a "balanced" municipal budget, city council revised its 1933 appropriation, slashing $25,000 from its operating allowances for the year. The economies included 20 per cent reductions in salaries of elected officials, further pay cuts for policemen and firemen and other city employes, and a cut in the street lighting bill.

Warden Preston E. Thomas of Ohio State penitentiary spoke at the sixth annual meeting of Boy Scout Troop 3 in Epworth M. E. church. His talk was heard by more than 1,000 persons.

It was Tuesday, March 13, 1923.

President Harding, "looking like a new man," stopped briefly at Palm Beach in the midst of his Florida vacation sojourn in a houseboat but sidestepped a round of social activity that had been tentatively planned for him. He continued on his way after stopping long enough for church services and a round of golf.

The Tuesday Afternoon Bridge club met with Mrs. Carroll Davidson of Crown Point.

Mrs. C. C. Smith of Girard avenue was hostess to the Wide Awake club.

Mrs. Loring K. Warner was hostess to the Women's Century club at her home on East Center street.

Mayor George W. Neeley was on a business trip to Columbus.

Fred Zuck and Theodore Zuck, students at Western Reserve university, were visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Frank Zuck of Windsor street.

The Grand theater was showing "My Dad" starring Johnnie Walker. The Marion was featuring "Nero," a movie made in Italy under American direction, and the Orpheum was showing a musical comedy troupe headed by Linton DeWolfe, in "Talk of the Town."

Knives in New Field

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON, Tex.—Prisoners in the Harris county jail are helping Texas soldiers and marines come out on top in hand-to-hand scraps with the Japs.

A score of illegal "frog-stickers" and one hand-made dirk taken from the prisoners have found their way into a box of knives contributed by Sheriff Neal Polk to the "Save a Life With a Knife" drive.

The knives will go to Texas soldiers and marines in the South Pacific where jungles are so dense rifles and bayonets are virtually useless in hand-to-hand combat.

Keeps Popularity

ST. LOUIS — The popularity of the painting, "Custer's Last Fight," never fades.

More than 150,000 copies of it have been given away by the brewery which purchased the painting in 1890 and more than 2,000 copies still are mailed each month.

That makes the famous, gaudy lithograph one of the most popular in American history.

Air Patrol Minute Men to the Rescue!

SLOWLY, through the screen of censorship, the story of the coastal patrol of the civil air patrol is beginning to sift out.

Rep. Hatton W. Sumners of Texas recently wrote into the Congressional Record the most detailed survey of the CAP that has yet been made public.

Coastal patrol planes for months have been carrying bombs and are equipped with "jim-dandy" bombsights that only cost 20 cents, but are deadly accurate to 3,000 feet. The story has come out that the coastal patrol no longer thinks anything of flying 40 to 50 miles to sea.

Fifty miles at sea means much more than that from the home port and possibly even hundreds of miles from an emergency landing field. Yet the CAP flies mostly single-motored planes in which a conk-out at sea means sudden death.

Only seven patrol pilots have been reported "missing on mission"—a small price when it is considered that they have saved hundreds of lives by spotting survivors of sunken ships, and perhaps saved thousands more by spotting subs and reporting them to sub-chasers and destroyers.

To what extent the coastal patrol is responsible for driving Nazi subs away from these in-shore lanes probably will never be known, but that they were the first effective patrol in the air in this war has been admitted. In the early days of last year, there were no navy blimps to speak of and both Army and Navy planes were badly needed elsewhere. The flying minutemen took off in that breach.

CAP pilots and ground crews are salesmen, clerks, doctors, bankers and housewives. They are Hollywood stars and members of congress. Jose Iturbi, the pianist, is in the CAP. So is Gov. Bricker of Ohio.

These men and women work for expense money and many of them haven't always bothered to collect that, even when it had to do with repairs. Some have bought their own radios, tools and even flying instruments. There are more than 20,000 pilots registered now; another 20,000 (some of them as young as 16, in training) and 20,000 more who make up the ground crews, office help, guards, first aid staff, etc.

The CAP is said to be the idea of Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of Army air forces. Its national commander is Maj. Earle L. Johnson.

Still Fighting

SIMLA, India—High up in the lonely outposts in the Burmese hills a devoted band of civil servants of the Burmese government is still waging an underground war against the Japanese invaders.

The exact localities of the headquarters of these officers must remain a secret, but it can be divulged that they are still carrying on actual administration work in several different places throughout a wide area within the boundaries of Burma, and that they still have their lines of communication open and have remained in touch with the Burmese government here.

These men know the country and its people intimately after a lifetime of experience; while the local people, in turn, know and trust the officers who have not deserted them despite the constant threat of discovery and death at the hands of the Japanese. The officials' presence has done more than any other factor in steadying the hill people against the impact of Japanese propaganda.

Only when the full story can be told of these Burma government officials and their military comrades in Burma's dangerous outposts will the full value of their contribution to the cause of the United Nations be understood.

Unfavorable Dope

We Think a Gent Who Marries a Three-Time Divorcee Can't Complain If He Makes Fourth.

By DAMON RUNYON

A FRIEND of mine, a confirmed horse [illegible] recently got married to a lady [illegible] had three previous adventures in [illegible] all of which ended in divorces. His [illegible] her convinces me that he regards marriage of less importance than horse playing.

If he was contemplating a bet on [illegible] the first thing he would be to [illegible] past performances of the steed to [illegible] kind of races it had been running. [illegible] record disclosed three bad races in a [illegible] would most likely eliminate that [illegible] consideration as a betting proposition [illegible] another.

He might throw out one bad race, [illegible] two, because of track conditions, or [illegible] during the races, but he would scarcely [illegible] out three bad ones. He would just [illegible] figure that the horse was no [illegible] when it came to getting married, [illegible] failed to examine the past form of [illegible] or else he suddenly became more of a [illegible] taker than is his normal bent.

In cases of this nature, the past performances are almost as much of a [illegible] as those of the race horse. The [illegible] form of my friend's selection is [illegible] the complaints filed by and against [illegible] courts. She was the plaintiff in one [illegible] and the defendant in two. As a [illegible] charged a husband with mental cruelty [illegible] a defendant she was accused of extravagance [illegible] bad temper and physical violence.

NOW in scanning the possibilities [illegible] in a race my friend sometimes [illegible] printed record is not sufficiently revealing [illegible] in that event he generally goes around [illegible] inquiries.

He always seeks authoritative [illegible] as owners and trainers and jockeys [illegible] there may not be something more [illegible] the eye in the published form. It seems [illegible] he should have taken similar precautions [illegible] reference to marriage.

He should have looked up those former husbands and interviewed them carefully [illegible] the way the lady shaped up as a [illegible] should have ascertained of the [illegible] against whom she was the plaintiff [illegible] deemed mental cruelty. It might be some [illegible] habit or custom to which my friend himself [illegible] prone. He should have learned from the [illegible] to what extent her extravagance extended and in what manner she displayed bad temper and physical violence.

The latter information would be of particular value because then when he decided to [illegible] on the lady, regardless, he would know about what to expect and could devise means of protecting himself. I do not understand how [illegible] man of worldly experience can figure a [illegible] is going to run better for him than for [illegible] or three other previous husbands, allowing [illegible] they were not vastly different from him [illegible] human beings. But I suppose we have [illegible] the element called love, which of course [illegible] wholly unexplainable.

I THINK we should have commissions to [illegible] view all cases of proposed matrimony [illegible] which one party or the other has a record [illegible] two previous marriages, and that where [illegible] past performances disclosed shortcomings [illegible] wife or husband, wedlock should be [illegible]. Thus we would take a load off the [illegible] courts and save many a poor bloke from [illegible] coming legally involved with an [illegible] partner and, I think I should add, vice versa.

War Bonds for Farmers

COLUMBUS, O.—Farm operating costs and necessary living expenses of the farm [illegible] must be met first out of farm income, and [illegible] a good policy now to pay such pressing debts as back taxes, second mortgages, and note extensions; but Wesley Green, Columbus, U. S. treasury department, says the purchase of War Bonds should be considered ahead of paying moderate farm mortgage indebtedness.

Mr. Green reasons that farmers are unable now to buy some of the equipment they want and which they will buy when it becomes available. If present income is used to pay off mortgages, the farmer is likely to be short of cash when the time comes to buy the equipment. If bonds are bought now, they can be used to purchase goods after the war if that seems advisable or they can be used then to pay off the mortgage.

War bonds can be sold for cash any time after 60 days from purchase. If sold before they have been held one year, no interest is paid, but the purchase price is returned. The bonds earn interest after being held one year or [illegible].

[illegible] term lend-lease [illegible] and misnomer the congressman said the true designation for this scheme should be "give away" and charged that the program "has and is injuring our war effort." He said resentment is welling up against giving our substance away under the mask of lend-lease when U. S. soldiers in the field are in such dire need of fighting equipment.

"It is now common knowledge," he said, "that when the Philippines were attacked our soldiers there were so handicapped in war supplies, both as to quantity and quality that they became easy prey to the attacking Japanese. Most of you have read of the bravery, the horrors, and suffering of Manila, Bataan, and Corregidor. The eyewitness accounts of men who escaped that hellhole are beyond belief. The despair and frustration of poor, brave, bleeding, and starving boys when they finally realized, after all they had suffered, that they were to receive no help, is positive proof of the wrong that was committed against them in lend-lease. As General MacArthur so well said, no matter how brave, men cannot fight today's wars with bare hands. 'Give us planes, give us guns; not 65,000 next year but 10 planes now,' is what our boys were pleading then and what they have pleaded and are pleading now in Guadalcanal and New Guinea. How many lives, American lives, are being and have been sacrificed because of inadequate supplies and equipment?

"At the time our Philippine Islands were attacked, according to the President's lend-lease report of March 11, 1942, the authorities in Washington had allocated more than $11,000,000,000 for materials of war to be given away to other nations under lend-lease; more than $6,000,000,000 worth was obligated to be given away; and more than a billion dollars' worth of modern tanks, planes, guns, and so forth, had already been given away.

"More and more we in America are coming to realize that there is a limit on what this nation is able to produce. We are reaching the place where we are feeling the pinch of rationing. We are reaching the end of our manpower and shall shortly be compelled to curtail the size of our Army or cut down on production. Already the production of food is seriously affected and likely to become worse instead of better.

"I recall that when the original lend-lease bill was before this house two years ago, its ostensible purpose was to keep us out of war. Lend-lease was to give us a vicarious war; under it we were to produce the articles of war, give them over to other nations and they would do the bleeding. We were told that they had plenty of men, that they did not need our soldiers. I think there were few in this chamber so naive as to believe that we could long continue such an arrangement and not involve ourselves in the war. It was and is unthinkable that some other nation will fight and bleed for us. Make no mistake, the nations fighting this war are, each and every one, fighting for themselves; we are allies in that we fight a common foe.

"Give away (lend-lease) is a delusion and a snare as an aid to peace," and "when the victors gather around the settlement table after this war, the same spirit will prevail as has always prevailed where the spoils of war were to be divided. Let no one fondly imagine that the countries now receiving lend-lease largess are going to feel themselves indebted to the United States."

Tiffin Loan Official Enters Innocent Plea

By The Associated Press

TIFFIN, O., March 13—Executive Secretary Clarence W. Crobaugh of the Citizens Building Association Co. pleaded innocent yesterday to charges of embezzling $170,000 from the firm. He failed to post $50,000 bond and was returned to jail.

Crobaugh, 48, was indicted with his brother, Burton W. Crobaugh, 52, Tiffin hardware dealer, charged with aiding embezzlement; Norman W. Peters, 62, a brother-in-law, charged with aiding and abetting, and Lulu Sacksteder, 60, assistant secretary of the firm, also charged with aiding and abetting.

All pleaded innocent, the assistant secretary being released on $10,000 bond and Burton Crobaugh and Peters on $5,000 bonds each. The latter two filed damage suits totaling $200,000 against Prosecutor Robert C. Carpenter, alleging defamation of character.

DAVIS SAYS AFRICAN SITUATION BETTER

OWI Chief Gives Review of War Outlook.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13—Around the world, today's military picture shows the United Nations on the offensive, spearheaded by the Russian campaign, and the political situation in North Africa is improving steadily, says Elmer Davis, director of the office of war information.

Topping his weekly broadcast review of the war last night was the OWI chief's assertion that—strategically speaking—the enemy now "is wondering what we are going to do," with the offensive taken out of axis hands.

He acknowledged "at various places the enemy just now is on tactical offensive," but said these moves were largely in the hope of delaying allied strategy and gaining time.

He termed the Russian campaign "the biggest of the war or of any war," but pointed out the battle in Tunisia "is strategically very important" in that whatever time German General Rommel can gain there will mean just that much postponement of "the allied invasion of southern Europe."

NAZIS LAY PLANS TO BLOCK OUTBREAK

Map Way To Prevent Rebellion in France.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 13—Jittery over the prospects of a 1943 invasion and the unruliness of the civil populations of occupied countries, the Germans were reported today by a foreign diplomatic source to have conferred with police authorities in Paris during the last fortnight on measures to prevent outbreaks in the hinterlands when the allies march on the continent.

The meeting, said this source who requested anonymity, was headed by Field Marshal Gen. Gerd Von Runstedt and was attended by all the civil authorities and military personages responsible for policeing western Europe.

Reports of increasing sabotage in the low countries and in metropolitan France coincided with the Yugoslav government's announcement of a new Nazi massacre of 1,250 Serbian hostages in Belgrade.

The foreign diplomatic source said he had received reliable reports from Italy that hundreds of small craft, including pleasure boats and fishing smacks, were being assembled in Sicily and in southern Italy, apparently in preparation for a Tunisian Dunkerque.

CORN PRICES

farm leaders that the government refrain from placing ceilings on agricultural products at below parity levels. After a temporary ceiling was placed on corn at 92 per cent of parity, the farm bloc, with votes of administration leaders, put through the senate a bill sponsored by Senator Bankhead (D-Ala) barring sub-parity ceilings. The measure is pending in the house.

This congressional action led farmers and others owning corn to hold onto the grain in anticipation of higher prices. As a consequence, dairymen, poultrymen and live stock feeders who depend upon the market for their feed have been finding it difficult to obtain corn at present ceiling prices. The agriculture department has received reports of impending serious feed shortages in the east and far west.

The new OPA order superseded temporary ceilings established two months ago. It continued a maximum price of $1.02 a bushel for number 2 yellow corn at Chicago with differentials for other markets. The new ceilings apply at every stage of distribution from the time the corn leaves the farmer's hands until it is sold by retail dealers. The order also sets top prices at which the grain may be sold on futures markets.

RAF RAID

attacked the coastal areas of northeast England during the night and a British communique said some damage and casualties resulted. One of the German planes was shot down.

Essen, declared by military observers to be Germany's second "most blitzed" city, was the last previous Ruhr target of the RAF, on the night of March 5 when it received a terrific pounding.

The German-controlled Paris radio also declared in a broadcast that the death toll at Rouen had risen to 70 and might climb higher.

The German airforce in reprisal raids dropped bombs at points along the coast of northeast England early last night, it was reported. The German radio said Newcastle, an objective of raids earlier in the day, was the night target. It was reliably reported that at least one enemy bomber was shot down last night. The daylight raiders reached the outskirts of London but a total of 13 German planes were destroyed and several were damaged, it was stated.

An RAF force crossed the channel at dusk yesterday to bomb the Cockerill engineering and armament plants near Liege, in Belgium.

Governor's Son Gives Pet Airedale To Army

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 13—Jack Bricker, 12-year-old son of Gov. and Mrs. John W. Bricker, is sending his airedale pet, Brownie, to war.

Mrs. Bricker said the 6½-year-old black and tan dog had qualified for membership in dogs for defense and would leave for Cleveland today preparatory to "induction" for training to guard army camps, railroad yards or other war-vital installations.

An eight-month-old retriever named Duke will remain at the governor's mansion to romp with Jack, however. Brownie has been Jack's pet since the dog was six weeks old.

Allied Planes Shoot Down 4 Jap Fighters

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, March 13—Allied Liberator bombers, putting out of action four of eight Japanese fighters which rose to oppose them, smashed through to Ambon harbor, on Amboina island in the Dutch East Indies and laid a 500-pound bomb on a 7,000-ton merchantman yesterday, today's communique said.

The heavy bombers, which made the attack in the face of anti-aircraft fire and rain squalls, could not definitely assess the day's work but knew that two of the four Japanese fighters they put out of action were destroyed and two others were damaged.

DEALERS POINT OUT RATIONING ERRORS

Declare No Allowance Made for Sectional Habits.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 13—A belief "too many foods were brought under one set of coupons" in the meat-butter-cheese rationing program and a hope rationing will provide for differences in eating habits between various sections of the country was expressed by trade leaders today. The new rationing program is scheduled to go into effect March 29.

John A. Kotal, secretary of the National Retail Meat Dealers association, said southerners did not eat more than a pound of meat a week, while northerners ate from two to three times as much.

"I hope that some arrangement can be made for this difference in eating habits," Kotal said. "Another thing I hope," he added, "is that butchers will have the meat when customers confront them with sufficient ration stamps to make purchases."

C. S. Paton, secretary of the National Dairy Union, predicted the program "will lead to an unnecessary distortion of purchases among the various foods." He added "dairy men fear the order is part of a plan to revamp the dietary habits of the American people, with emphasis upon substitutes for so-called animal foods."

TOKYO REPORTS RED SHIP SUNK BY U. S.

Radio Report from Japan Unconfirmed Elsewhere.

By The Associated Press

A Domei dispatch broadcast from Tokyo today and recorded by The Associated Press declared that the 8,000-ton Soviet freighter Kohla had been "torpedoed and sunk the night of February 17 in the East China sea by an American submarine."

This declaration was unsupported by any advices from United Nations agencies. Japan and Russia are co-signers of a neutrality pact, but have had exchanges over such matters as floating mines in the sea of Japan which Tokyo charged were of Soviet make and a fishing agreement which expired Dec. 31 has not been renewed.

A Japanese imperial headquarters communique broadcast by the Berlin radio as a Tokyo dispatch to transocean said Japanese naval airmen had sunk a 3,000-ton allied transport east of New Guinea and severely damaged another March 8.

It declared 32 allied planes had been shot down by Japanese airmen and anti-aircraft guns in offensive and defensive operations from the Aleutians to the Solomons from March 8 to 11, a period in which communiques from the U. S. Navy and allied headquarters in Australia report no aerial losses.

gress. The repealer, challenging the administration's authority, was part of a measure to raise the national debt limitation to $210,000,000,000.

On the food front, an order of the office of price administration continuing sub-parity prices on corn—the nation's largest crop—became effective amid signs of a split within the administration's economic high command over farm policies.

Farm leaders admittedly were surprised by the order, indicating they had believed they expected a parity corn ceiling as a concession to the farm bloc in congress.

Cong. Smith Favors Salary Limit Repeal

Congressman F. C. Smith of Marion and all other Republican members of the Ohio delegation in congress voted for legislation in the house to repeal the President's executive order limiting individual salaries to $25,000 a year, The Associated Press reported. The other Ohio Republicans voting for the repealer included Congressman Brown of the Seventh district including Union county and Congressman McGregor of the Seventeenth district including Delaware county. Although not actually casting a vote for the repealer, Congressman McGregor was paired with another congressman in an agreement which was the equivalent of such a vote. Two Ohio Democrats voted against the repealer, one Ohio Democrat did not vote.

War in Critical Stage as Planes Bid for Supremacy

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The war is entering a critical phase in which air-power bids fair to play a part far exceeding in importance anything that has gone before.

Looking back at such frightful aerial sieges as that of Britain it's hard to believe the skies could unloose greater death and destruction. Yet we are on the verge of vast developments.

The air navies are rushing towards bombing operations which will be unprecedented in violence and size. At least the allied forces are headed that way. The luftwaffe is keeping remarkably quiet, as explained in yesterday's column, but it will be surprising if Hitler isn't able to fling a great fleet into the air when he feels his crisis at hand.

The reason for this increase in air importance lies in the fact, of course, that American and British industries finally have produced sufficient aerial striking power so the luftwaffe at last has a giant competitive. And that power is pyramiding.

The most conclusive evidence of the turn of events lies in the terrific bombing offensive being conducted against western Europe and Germany by the Anglo-American forces based in Britain. As explained by British Air Secretary Sinclair in the house of commons a couple of days ago, the royal air force alone has wrecked 2,000 German war factories, cut Nazi steel production by 1,250,000 tons annually, and driven a million or more Germans from shattered homes. This doesn't include the devastation wrought by the American air force.

Bombing To Increase

We may expect this bombing to increase in intensity, for it is the forerunner of the eagerly awaited invasion of France by the allies. Hitler's chief industries, bases and communications must be crippled. It would be massacre to try to put an army ashore from the English channel without this preparation and without providing an absolute umbrella of warplane protection for the landing.

Reichsmarshal Goering reportedly has been in Rome conferring with Italian officials. It wouldn't be surprising if this were true, and the mission which would take the Nazi air chief to the eternal city might be the threat of an allied invasion of Italy as soon as the North African show is over. Here again the Anglo-American airfleet would break trail and must be met by the luftwaffe.

Speaking of North Africa, allied air superiority in Tunisia is playing a major part in operations which are swinging our way. And it was allied air supremacy in Libya which was a vital factor in General Montgomery's historic victory over Rommel.

As soon as we have manhandled der fuehrer sufficiently we shall go out all out against Japan. Here again it will be the air which will lead the way for an invasion that will clear Burma of the Japs and reopen the supply route to China. Then will come the blasting of Tokyo and other Japanese cities until the mikado will have to quit to save his little island from being blown out of the sea.

We won't overlook that our air strength in the southwest Pacific permitted of the unprecedented victory over the Japs in the Bismarck sea. That warplane fleet is a major factor in maintaining superiority over the Japs in that strategic area.

So the call of the air is increasingly great in all the theaters of war. We are piling up vast strength, but we are far from the necessary peak. We need more and more and more if we are to shorten the conflict.

Destruction by air is far cheaper in allied lives and equipment than destruction by our armies. A squadron of bombers can wipe out in a few hours what it might take an army months to destroy.

Sir Commodore H. N. Thornton, British air attache in Washington, says super 1,000 plane raids in western Europe and Germany will be increased "when we get the planes." That's the story.

TAX PAYMENTS SOAR IN SOME SECTIONS

Many Offices Far Ahead As Deadline Nears.

By The Associated Press

Record-breaking receipts in most districts contrasted sharply with an "I won't pay" attitude among thousands of workers today as Americans dug down to give their government its greatest income tax in history.

Tax filings were far ahead of past years in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Seattle and many other areas as the March 15 deadline approached, a survey disclosed.

But in Cleveland, the internal revenue office reported, war workers were adopting "come-and-get-me" pose, and in Portland, Ore., where more than 100,000 shipyard workers have settled in the past year, collections were below the 1942 level.

In New York's second district—the richest income tax district in the nation—taxpayers poured $70,000,000 into internal revenue offices yesterday alone.

One out of every 20 letters handled by the Chicago postoffice yesterday was addressed to the internal revenue office. In the Chicago loop, a two-block line four abreast waited to file returns, one man turning in a check for $7,500,000 as quarterly payment of a corporation's tax bill.

A zealous citizen in Pittsburgh who wanted to be sure the government didn't get cheated sent in a check for five cents, as quarterly payment on a 20-cent tax. At least six clerks must handle the check before Uncle Sam finally gets his nickel.

RECORD HOG PRICES BREAK DURING WEEK

Quotations Fall from Peak of $16.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 13—Prices of live hogs at the start of the week reached $16, equalling the season's high, established a week earlier and the highest level previously touched since October, 1920.

These peaks were not maintained, however, and prices broke sharply during the early part of the week. On Wednesday, quotations were off as much as 50 cents, although they recovered partly toward the end of the week.

One of the chief factors which influenced the break was a report the government might establish a ceiling price over live hogs. Earlier the government announced it would support swine with a floor under prices at $13.25. After prices had soared $2.75 above that level, there were threats of a ceiling to be fixed somewhere between $14.50 and $15.

At the same time some traders expected them to stimulate increased marketings on the part of producers in the hope of obtaining the higher prevailing levels before the ceilings could be put into effect.

The day after the report regarding ceilings, shipments to market did expand and prices dropped abruptly. The trend failed to hold, however, and on Thursday receipts here were curtailed sharply to 9,000 head against advance estimates of 12,000 salable receipts.

Another feature of the market on Thursday was that while prices generally advanced around 10 cents, the peak price declined 10 cents. The price range for most classes was extremely narrow.

The corn-hog feed ratio for the week ended March 6 declined from 15.8 to 15.7. This indicated an average return to producers on 100 pounds of live hogs in the Chicago market equivalent to the purchase price of 15.7 bushels of No. 3 yellow corn.

Federally inspected slaughter in Chicago for the week ended March 5 was about on the same level as a year ago, with 96,736 head compared with 99,211 a week earlier and 93,135 the corresponding day last year.

Dear Boss:

I would like to call your attention to the rickety old chair I have been using for the past several years. You may think I'm selfish, but I really am interested in producing more work, with less TEDIOUS effort . . . and here's how I can do it! The other day, I noticed a new office chair in Wiant's Book Store at 120 South Main street. It's called a Cramer Posture Chair. You should see it, boss. It has a comfortable cushion seat that is form-fitting . . . I know because I tried it . . . and can be raised or lowered to accommodate any size secretary!

I honestly believe that hours would pass faster than minutes in this "Anti-Fatigue" Chair.

Your secretary,

Remember Boss, this chair can be adjusted to fit any office girl, regardless of size!

74 Teams Still In Running For State High School Cage Titles

Defiance, in 'A," Webster Twp., in "B," First To Reach Sectionals.

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., March 13—Undefeated Webster township of [illegible] Defiance in Class A, are the first of the 1,152 high school basketball teams to reach the select circle of 16 in each division to play next week for the regional championships.

Webster township, with a 45-33 win last night over Sandusky St. Marys, ran its victory string to 22 and grabbed a spot in the March 20 four-team regional at Bowling Green.

Defiance, rated one of the "hottest" clubs in the state, swept over Montpelier 35 to 28 to make it 21 straight. The win gave Defiance a berth in the Class A regional at Bowling Green.

Thirty-four other Class A teams were still scrapping for the remaining 15 positions in the regionals, while the Class B contingent still boasted 33 in addition to Webster township. All the district tournaments, with the exception of the Central and the Northeastern at Kent, wind up tonight. The huge Kent tourney, which qualifies three Class B and two Class A squads, ends next Wednesday.

Regionals Set

Next Saturday the "A" regionals will be held at Kent, Zanesville, Bowling Green and Dayton, while the "B" squads will gather at Kent, Bowling Green, Athens and Springfield, the eight winners coming to Columbus March 27 for the finals.

Seven of last years' final 16 A are still in the running—including the defending champion Xenia Central team, the runner-up Toledo Central Catholic squad, Akron Kenmore, unbeaten Greenfield McClain, Warren, Canton Lehman and Akron North.

Only five of the Class B qualifiers from last year are among those present—Webster township, Yorkville, Tipp City, Waynesburg and Gnadenhutten. Somerset, Class B victor a year ago, failed to get past the Perry county tournament.

Here are the survivors of the 244 Class A and 908 Class B quintets, and where they play in rounding out the district clashes:

NEW YORK, March 13—By the time Barney Ross finishes what is laughably called his "furlough" we imagine he'll do a lot of thinking about one of Jimmy Walker's remarks last night. . . . "We're not going to make an individual hero out of you," said Jimmy. . . . "That's the most annoying existence in the world. You can't live it down for the rest of your life, and for the rest of your life you can't live up to it."

2. To act as liaison, and as a two-way channel of communication and cooperation between government agencies and the food industry.

3. To make available to members of the government agencies the knowledge and experience of the food industry to the end that the agencies' policies and procedures will be sound and practicable.

The purpose of each division is to develop factual information on an industry-wide basis and to work with appropriate government agencies on specific problems.

BIVINS WINS GARDEN MATCH; BARNEY ROSS STEALS THE APPLAUSE

Cleveland Fighter Outpoints Tami Mauriello Before Crowd of 19,982.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 13—It probably sounds very funny, but a guy who didn't even have a glove on won a decision over a fellow who had to punch his way through dynamite in Madison Square Garden last night.

Corp. Barney Ross of the Marines, by just taking a bow, was the "hot-shot" for a sell-out gathering, while Jimmy Bivins, the Cleveland Clouter, had to swat the ears off Tami Mauriello to get even close to the pats on the back from the 19,982 customers.

This was because the little corporal came back to the Garden where he fought most of his great fights on his way to winning the world welterweight, lightweight and junior welterweight championships a few years back. It was just as ex-mayor Jimmy Walker voiced it for all concerned when he said, "all the neighbors are happy because little Barney has come home."

This was part of Jimmy's speech in presenting the Edward J. Neil Memorial trophy in the garden ring to the little corporal as boxing's "man of the year" for 1942.

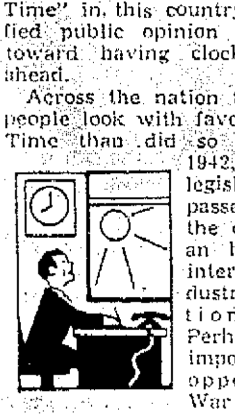
The best Bivins could do was to thump Mauriello around the premises—and he did just that. After a slow start during the first two rounds, Mr. Long-Arm from Cleveland whacked Tami all over the place through the middle heats and then stood off the Bronx belter's stretch drive to win a narrow ten-round decision. One judge voted for a draw, after the other judge and the referee balloted for Bivins.

Poll Shows Public About Evenly Divided On Time

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director: American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 13—A year's experience with "War Time" in this country has modified public opinion considerably toward having clocks an hour ahead.

Across the nation today, fewer people look with favor upon War Time than did so in January, 1942, just before legislation was passed moving the clocks ahead an hour in the interests of industrial production programs. Perhaps more important, farm opposition to War Time has mounted sharply as compared to last year.



This shift in public sentiment concerning War Time takes on added importance in view of the increasing concern over food production schedules. The Department of Agriculture or Congress may want to appoint a special group to investigate how much War time has hurt farm production, if any, as against its benefits, if any, to industrial production.

The Institute took the issue to the American people in a nation-wide survey at the suggestion of Representative William C. Cole of Missouri, who has a resolution in the House calling for a return to Standard Time.

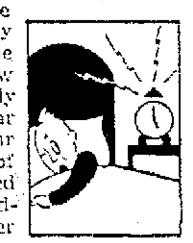
Here is the question which field reporters for the Institute put to a cross-section of the people throughout the country:

"A resolution in Congress calls for a return to Standard Time throughout the nation. If the question were voted on in this state would you vote for returning to Standard Time or staying on War Time?"

The results:

Favor Remaining on War Time	44%
Favor Return to Standard Time	42
No Opinion	14

These findings are contrasted to the January 1942 study, when 57 per cent of those questioned favored War Time, 30 per cent opposed, and 13 per cent had no opinion on the question.



While sentiment is today evenly divided for the whole country on the issue, the farmers are now overwhelmingly opposed to War Time. Last year 45 per cent of them favored staying on Standard Time, 36 per cent were willing to go on War Time, and 19 per cent had no opinions. Following is a table showing present farm sentiment as contrasted to urban:

	Favor War Time	Favor Stand. Time	No Opin.
Farm	23%	66%	11%
Cities & Towns Under 10,000	39	46	15
Cities & Towns Over 10,000	53	32	15

The farmers, according to reports from field reporters, contend that their schedules cannot be readjusted to fit legislated time and that the advanced clock brings them only confusion and lowered productiveness.

War Time lay advocates, found strongest among younger people, prefer the advanced clock because of the increased daylight which it affords for purposes of recreation.

OPA "Court of Appeals" Under Consideration

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown, has under consideration the establishment of a "court of appeals" to aid in administering price ceilings and rationing, it was learned yesterday.

Under the proposal, Brown would sit on the highest court, along with representatives of the public and possibly labor.

It also calls for "lower courts" to be drawn from businessmen, lawyers and consumers.

Members of the "courts" would be called to Washington from time to time to consider price and rationing problems in the belief the system might relieve OPA from much past criticism and tend to increase public interest in the administration of the agency.

Brown was represented as feeling that lawyers called upon to aid him should be "grey haired." presumably to offset criticism in congress and elsewhere that OPA has too many young attorneys on its staff.

Women's City Pin Tourney To Get Under Way Sunday

The annual women's city bowling tournament will get under way Sunday with team competition at the Marion recreation center on [illegible] and will continue next Sunday with doubles and singles action.

Mrs. Edna Babcock, who as president of the women's city association is in charge of the annual tournament, said yesterday that 17 five-woman teams, 30 sets of doubles and 60 singles have been entered. This is a record entry figure, she said.

Assisting Mrs. Babcock with plans for the two-week event are Mrs. Lillian Dalton, secretary of the association, and Mrs. Esther Stafford, treasurer.

The team events will be run off on a handicap basis with the Nu-Way Shoe repair team, averaging 719, set up as "scratch." Seventy-five per cent of the difference of a team's average and that of Nu-Way will be the team's handicap for the tourney, Mrs. Babcock explained.

The doubles and singles will be run off on a point basis. The participant will receive one point for every pin she bowls over her regular average.

Defending tournament champions are: Crawford Finance, team; Mrs. Herr and Mrs. W. Woessner, doubles; Mrs. Thelma Minard, singles.

The schedule for the tournament follows. Entrants will roll their singles immediately after doubles events:

"Pride of the Yankees," Gehrig Film, at Palace

To Start Five-Day Run Sunday: Gary Cooper Starred in Real-Life Story of Baseball Star.

With the national game of baseball as its background, "The Pride of the Yankees," showing Sunday through Thursday at the Palace theater, brings to the screen the real-life story of Lou Gehrig, famous first baseman of the New York Yankees, with Gary Cooper starring in the title role. All the sports world knew Gehrig the ball-player, holder of more than a score of diamond records, perhaps the most popular figure the game ever produced. Comparatively few knew Gehrig the man, knew of his struggling boyhood, his ambitions, his college career, his marriage, his personal life. It is this phase that forms the basis of the picture, filmed with the co-operation of Mrs. Eleanor Gehrig, who checked every detail to be sure the offering was accurate in its depiction of her famous husband.

The film story begins in 1914 when Lou was but 11 years old, the son of a poor German immigrant, but passionately devoted to baseball. Urged on by his mother, who is determined he shall become an engineer, he earns his way through Columbia university by waiting on table, but in his spare time wins attention for his athletic ability. When his mother falls ill and needs expensive medical care, Lou gives up his dreams of a profession and turns to baseball to make money immediately. It also tells of his marriage to Eleanor Twitchell, portrayed by Teresa Wright, whose devotion to him during his greatest years and his subsequent losing fight with paralysis made their romance so outstanding. Walter Brennan, Babe Ruth and a number of the Yankee players are in the cast.

Friday and Saturday the Palace will present "Ice Capades Revue" and "The McGuerins from Brooklyn." Ellen Drew and Richard Denning are co-starred in the former, a romantic comedy. The story concerns the efforts of Miss Drew to stage her own ice show despite the opposition of an ex-racketeer who owns a rival show.

"The McGuerins from Brooklyn" is a comedy farce featuring William Bendix, Marjorie Woodworth, Grace Bradley, Joe Sawyer, Arline Judge and Max Baer. It is concerned with the adventures of two wacky cab drivers who have run up a great fortune and are riding on the crest of a wave.

Aerial War Film at Ohio

"Flying Tigers" Features John Wayne, John Carroll and Anna Lee.

John Wayne, John Carroll and Anna Lee have the featured roles in "Flying Tigers" now showing through Thursday at the Ohio theater. With its action set against the suspense of the Burmese war front, the film depicts the exploits of the famed former American Volunteer Group. The story presents Wayne as a squadron leader who drafts into the group a young flier of indisputable personal courage but of doubtful motives. Portrayed by John Carroll, he is interested chiefly in the $500 bonus he will receive for every plane he bags, rather than the cause for which he fights. He soon incurs the enmity of the other fliers, particularly when it appears that he failed to save a fellow flier in his real to bring down more planes and earn more bonuses. Wayne never loses faith in his friend, however, and this faith is ultimately rewarded by an act of spectacular bravery.

Friday through Monday the Ohio will present Joan Bennett, Milton Berle and Otto Preminger in "Margin for Error." The story takes you on a tour through the New York consulate of the Nazis looking for laughs. The fun begins when the mayor assigns Milton Berle to guard the consulate. His big job is to protect the consul, Otto Preminger who isn't as popular as a man might be. He isn't even popular with his wife, Miss Bennett. Circumstances are cleared up with a merry murder.

Showing with the comedy will be a March of Time film, "One Day of War—Russia, 1943." It was filmed in Russia in one day by 160 Soviet cameramen and shows the war on many fronts as well as the activities in industry and agriculture.

Musical Movie Included in State Double Program

George Murphy and Anne Shirley are co-starred in the musical, "The Mayor of 44th Street," booked for Sunday and Monday at the State theater. Richard Barthelmess, star of the silent screen, plays the role of the villian, a hoodlum bent on destroying Miss Shirley and Murphy. Freddy Martin and his famous dance band provide the musical setting.

Also on the Sunday-Monday bill will be "Smart Alecks," an action comedy featuring the East Side Kids and Maxie Rosenbloom. Gale Storm and Roger Pryor supplement the stars.

The Tuesday-Wednesday program will feature "Week-End for Three," starring Dennis O'Keefe, Jane Wyman and Philip Reed, and an outdoor action drama, "Yukon Patrol," with Allen Lane and Lita Conway.

Bob Crosby and Ruth Terry are starred in "Rookies on Parade," and Roy Rogers, Lulu Belle and Scotty are the popular trio in "Shine on Harvest Moon," the Thursday-Saturday offerings.

Milk Prices To Raise at Upper Sandusky

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, March 13—The price of milk will be raised to 14 cents a quart here, Monday, the Wyandot County Milk Distributors' association announced today. The one cent increase is authorized by OPA general order No. 43 setting a 14 cent price for eastern and northern Ohio area.

Factory inspection became a responsibility of the British government in 1833.

War Films At Marion

"Johnny Doughboy" on Double Feature Bill with "Underground Agent."

The Marion theater will present "Johnny Doughboy" and "Underground Agent" Sunday and Monday. The former is a musical comedy starring Jane Withers, Henry Wilcoxon and Patrick Brook. Miss Withers portrays a young actress who runs away from Hollywood but finally returns to perform in a musical show for the entertainment of soldiers.

Bruce Bennett and Leslie Brooks are the stars in the second film which reveals the type of anti-sabotage being done in this country by unsung civilian workers in an effort to smash wire-tapping Nazi spies.

Tuesday and Wednesday the main attraction will be "Cat People," based on an old Balkan legend. Simone Simon and Kent Smith are the stars supported by Tom Conway, Jane Randolph and Jack Holt.

The second attraction will be "You Can't Beat the Law," featuring Joan Woodbury and Jack LaRue.

Roy Rogers is starred in "Idaho," a western drama appearing Thursday through Saturday, Smiley Burnette, Virginia Grey, Ona Munson, Harry J. Shannon, Bob Nolan and the Sons of Pioneers are included in the cast.

Completing the double bill will be "The Crime Smasher," a detective comedy drama featuring Edgar Kennedy, Richard Cromwell, Gale Storm, Mantan Moreland and Frank Graham.

Bids Taken on War Housing

Government House Conversion Program Gets Under Way in Marion.

Bids are being taken for remodeling work on the first three Marion residential properties leased by the government for conversion into multiple living units to house war workers.

Pat Dwyer, contract management and sales broker for the Home Owners Loan corporation in Marion, said today that plans call for making two-family residences out of three residences that are now single family units. He added that another house has been leased and probably will be ready for bidders soon.

He said the work is not yet at the point where exact addresses are being announced, but that some information about the projects is available.

Conversion Plans.

One is a residence on East Church street which will be made into a four-room apartment renting for $50 monthly and another apartment of four rooms, bath and garage renting for $47.50. Gas, heat, electricity and hot and cold water will be furnished.

Another is on Bellevue avenue, to be made into a four-room apartment renting for $27.50 and a three-room apartment renting at $22.50. Water, gas and electricity will be furnished. These apartments will be heated by stove.

The third is on Cheney avenue where a house will be converted into two three-room apartments renting for $40 and $37.50 with heat, electricity, gas and water furnished.

The remodeling work is expected to range as high as $2,500 to $3,000 per property. Owners of the properties will receive these improvements in addition to their lease money from the government after the government has finished its use of the houses.

Method of Procedure.

Government leasing of properties is handled through the office of Grover Snyder, manager of the Marion war housing center with an office in the Chamber of Commerce offices. He also will provide the list of war workers families from whom renters will be selected.

The National Housing Agency will rent the houses to war workers and maintain the houses during the period of the government leases on them.

Remodeling work on the three now ready for action is expected to start within a few weeks.

A Delaware avenue property is expected to become the fourth conversion project under the federal program in the near future.

LEND-LEASE SEEN AS NEW BASIS FOR ERA OF PEACE

Mrs. Bolton Urges Total Cooperation in War.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13—A new era of world peace carved from the framework of the lend-lease program was visualized today by Rep. Frances P. Bolton (R) of Cleveland.

She urged "total cooperation" as a prerequisite to mutual understanding in the postwar period and triumph in global conflict.

After a view of the inside workings of lend-lease during hearings before the house foreign affairs committee, Mrs. Bolton said it was up to congress to strengthen, perhaps broaden, the program to make it reflect more vividly the aims of the nations fighting the axis.

This done, she suggested in a house speech, the way will be cleared for the fullest development of confidence and trust among the United Nations for victory and of a durable peace.

But, she added, "the war can not be won unless there is a completely integrated and overall strategy agreed upon by the United Nations or at least by the four great nations who are carrying the brunt of the fighting—the United States, Great Britain, the Soviet Union and China.

"This is true both from a military point of view and from the standpoint of developing the kind of cooperation in action and in mutual trust which is the only possible guarantee of a stable postwar world."

STOCKS MAKE SMALL GAINS

Many Leaders, However, Are Unable To Show Much Progress.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 13—Stocks churned at a rapid rate in today's market but, while there was a liberal sprinkling of 2-year highs, many leaders were unable to get anywhere.

The news from Russia remained a bit cloudy although generally viewed as bullish elsewhere. There still was plenty of loose change available for speculative and investment purpose. Some customers, however, inclined to convert paper profits to cash on the idea the list might run into a substantial correction.

Trends wavered after a good start and quotations near the close were irregular.

Pleasing earnings statements bolstered a number of favorites and dividend hopes aided others. Bell Aircraft was an isolated strong spot at a 1942-43 top. In the "new high" division at one time or another were Public Service of N. J., Goodyear, U. S. Rubber and Douglas Aircraft. Ahead most of the time were Westinghouse, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, U. S. Gypsum and General Motors.

Bonds and commodities were mixed.

MINE WAGE PARLEY CONTINUING TODAY

Miners Threaten Strike Unless Agreement Is Reached.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 13—United Mine Workers union representatives and southern operators scheduled another conference today after some union district representatives threatened work stoppages in the entire bituminous field if a contract granting wage increases is not signed by March 31.

John L. Lewis, UMW president, withheld comment on the statements of the district leaders which were voiced yesterday before a joint northern Appalachian wage conference.

With the current agreement due to expire March 31, the union has excluded among its demands a $2-a-day basic wage increase for the 450,000 northern and southern miners, a bottom daily wage of $8 for all bituminous field workers, double time for Sunday work and unionization of some 50,000 foremen and assistant foremen, heretofore excluded.

The present basic inside day rate for miners is $7, but some workers, Lewis has said, were paid less.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

THAT both Dicky and Georges were astonished at my father's request, I was sure. But one does not question the "Chief's" commands.

When they came back Georges was wearing the dark glasses, while Dicky's scarf dangled from one hand.

"Wrap the scarf around your throat as if you were suffering from a cold," my father directed. "That ought to get us by all casual glances," he said. "Now, I want to be sure that the elevator man I can trust is on the car we take. He will give the right kind of report to Milner."

He was taking care of every last detail, as usual, I noted, and in another minute we heard an elevator stop and my father saying "Ah, Collins; going down? Stop on your way back, please. And—do you happen to know where Mr. Milner is?"

"He's in his own suite sir, very busy," the man replied. "Do you want me to send him a message?"

"Oh-no; I'll telephone him."

We all waited tensely until the elevator came up again and we heard my father say "Margaret! Come quickly."

Georges and I in another second were inside the elevator, which, save for ourselves, was empty.

"Thank you, Collins," my father said as we reached the top floor on which was only the palatial apartment reserved for Philip Veritzen, owner of the hotel. "I won't need you any more, except—you might make sure for me that Mr. Milner is really in his own suite."

"I understand sir," the man said.

Philip Veritzen himself opened the door. He seized Georges by both hands and drew him inside, with only casual greetings to my father and myself.

"My dear lad!" he said. "This is indeed a red letter day for me. But let me take you to those who if possible are even more anxious to see you."

Mary Not Yet There

Georges quietly took off the disfiguring dark glasses and Dicky's scarf, and my father held out his hand for them.

"I'll take care of them for you," he said, as Philip Veritzen hurried Georges to where Olga was seated with Olina beside her. Mary and Noel were not in sight, and I guessed that Mary was purposely delaying their arrival.

I guessed also that Georges had noticed Mary's absence with disappointment, but he was too good a courtier to betray any hint of it. He bent low over Olga's hand, kissing it as impressively as if in her royal palace, but the welcome she gave him was more motherly than regal.

"Thank God, dear Georges," she said, "that I see you again! We have had such heart-breaking suspense about you. And here is Olina, also anxious to welcome you."

Greets Olina Tenderly

I saw Georges' eyes go in quick approval over Olina, then he raised her hand to his lips with the same impressive courtesy he had shown her mother, but knowing Georges, I guessed that the kiss was more tender.

For I never had seen Olina more beautiful, more appealing, than when she looked up shyly at this man still secretly loved, although she had broken her marriage engagement with him in the belief that he loved Mary.

At a knock on the door my father swiftly crossed the room, meeting Philip Veritzen half way.

"Get Georges into another room before you answer that," he said curtly, and Olina was already leading Georges, through a door which she closed after her. When her stepfather opened the door Collins stood there, breathless.

"He's left his apartment, sir," he told my father, "and gone to yours."

"Thank you, Collins," my father said, then as the door closed he spoke swiftly, tensely.

"Keep Georges in that other room for awhile," he said. "I'm sure Milner's on his way up here."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Categories of Disease.

Human ills fall into two great categories: acute and chronic.

Acute disease, by and large, belongs to young people. The baby is born with a certain amount of passive immunity acquired from the mother, but this soon runs out and when human contacts begin, a child gets measles, scarlet fever, whooping cought, chicken pox and other acute diseases.

Chronic disease, in general, is one of the penalties of age. It is true that adults have some acute diseases, such as pneumonia and appendicitis, but mostly they have chronic diseases and these fall into patterns such as stomach ulcer, gallstones, dypepit, neurosis and high blood pressure.

One of the very common patterns of chronic disease is migraine. It is rather a recurrent disease than a chronic disease. In its classic form it is the familiar "sick headache." Classically, this is a headache which comes on periodically—once a month, once a week—affects one side of the head only and is accompanied by digestive disturbances, notably nausea and vomiting.

Sometimes it gets separated into its two halves and one migrainous person will have only the headache while another will have only the digestive symptoms. People with the digestive migraine usually refer to their "bilious" attacks, because in these a spell of nausea and vomiting comes on; they vomit mostly bile and are constipated for several days.

It has been suggested that there are a number of migraine equivalents. These equivalents are not either headache or bilious attacks, but are periodic attacks of one kind or another. One migraine equivalent attacks the heart and produces spells of extremely rapid palpitation of the heart. Technically these are called paroxysmal tachycardia. Without warning, suddenly the heart turns over and begins to beat at three or four times its normal rate. The attack stops as suddenly as it comes on.

Mental Depression

Another form of migraine equivalent is spells of mental depression. The individual gets "blue" for no real reason and is that way for two to three days happy again. Another form is rappy again. Another form is spells of crying—hysteria—which come on periodically.

All of these people are hypersensitive individuals and it might well be that there is a migrainous basis for all of these symptoms. It simply depends upon what part of the organism is most susceptible, as to what part is attacked.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, March 14

SUNDAY'S horoscope, while indicating much activity and progress in cultural and creative lines out of the customary, and in relation to community or public welfare, yet holds augury of double-dealing. It would be well to keep vigilant as to all forms of intrigue and deceit and apply talents under direct inspiration. Be temperate, restrained and aboveboard in all conduct.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very lively year in which the energies and faculties will be alert. New matters, travel, agencies, communications and all literary or public interests should thrive, but there is a menace of subtle intrigue.

A child born on this day may possess rare abilities and talents, which should assure a distinguished achievement.

For Monday, March 15

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a very encouraging one for those who are expecting rewards for outstanding accomplishments, with appropriate recognition, financial returns, personal esteem and prestige. Good work, studious and dependable effort should gain enduring advantages.

Those whose birthday it is may be in line for recognition, honors and enduring rewards for meritorious work, whether such efforts and industry were in public, community or personal achievements. A time to aim at long sustained benefits and substantial good fortune.

A child born on this day may have sound and practical talents, industry, responsibility and fidelity, and will attain commensurate rewards.

MORE POWER VOTED FOR HIGHWAY HEAD

Republicans Force Bill Enlarging Director's Authority.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 13 — House Republicans have forced a bill through the legislature enlarging the highway director's powers.

The measure gives the highway director authority to keep his engineers' estimates of a project secret until just before the bids are opened. No prospective bidder could thus base bids upon the department's estimates of construction cost.

It also permits the highway director to award contracts on bids which may be as much as 10 per cent in excess of the engineers' estimates. The present law limits big awards to five per cent above estimated costs.

Operation of the measure is limited to April 15, 1945, or about three months after the present Bricker administration ends.

The bill reached the floor with no ceiling for a contract award. The 10 per cent restrictive clause was an amendment offered by Rep. John L. Catlett (R-Richland) and the time limit on the bill's operation was proposed by Rep. Walter L. Tarr (R-Hamilton). Both contended the measure was too liberal in its provisions.

Rep. Guy C. Hiner (R-Stark), sponsor of the measure, said the bill would result in the highway department getting lower bids on contracts and also would save time in highway construction by cutting down the number of rejections of all bids and readvertising for new ones.

It was finally passed 92 to 31 and was sent to the senate. Democrats generally voted against it.

Don C. Power, the governor's executive secretary, declared Highway Director Hal G. Sours desired to see the bill passed, contending it would save the state several million dollars on road construction during the next few years. Under the present system of bid letting, Sours explains, it is difficult to secure bids.

TOOTS, DID YOU NOTICE IF COLONEL HOOFER WAS WORKING ON HIS VICTORY GARDEN WHEN YOU CAME IN?
NO! CASPER SAW HIM GOING DOWN THE STREET CARRYING A BAG!
